NEW YORK, August 6 .- The railroad war concerning rates of passage for immigrants, which opened in March last, has just been closed. The combatants were the New York Central and the Hudson River, Erie and Pennsylvania railroads. Recently the rail-road agents took measures toward a reconciliation, and after considerable discussion it was resolved to restore the old rates, which have not been in operation since March 28th. This increases the immigrant fare to the West more than ten per cent. and to some points more than fifteen per cent. The contest among the steamship companies still continue. Beecher . Tilten - Dr. Storrs Interviewed.

NEW YORK, August 6.—The Tribunc to-day publishes an interview with Dr. Storrs relative to the Beecher-Tilton matter. Dr. Storrs says Tilton came to him about a week after the publication of the Woodhull paper, and thought some statement necesthat Mr. Moulton obtained that paper showed him a letter in the handwriting of Mrs. Tilton. It began, he believed: "On a certain day in the Summer, I informed my husband that Mr. Beecher had asked me to become a wife to him," etc. "Mr. Tilton also laid before me and read many other the original letters were shown me. Tilton did not seem actuated by feeling of revenge, but merely wished my advice, after I became acquainted with the facts. He spoke with no bitterness of Beecher, and used no vio-lent language, and seemed sad and depressed. Perhaps his appearance was deceptive, but such seemed to be his mood." Mrs. Tilton told him (Dr. Storrs) a year after, how the letter was written by her, and that it was utterly false and unfounded Dr. Stoors spoke feelingly of the long friendship between him and Beecher, and expressed a strong hope that Beecher would be shown blameless. He read the article, and Tilton's second call suggested four points to be denied: First, criminal relations of Beecher and Mrs. Tilton; second, Tilton's discovery of them; third, that Beecher received a paper from Mrs. Tilton dony ceived a paper from Mrs. Tilton denying that such relations existed; fourth, from Beecher. Tilton said: "Suppose these points cannot be denied?" Storrs replied: "Then the alternatives are a statement of the exact truth or absolute silence. Evasion in a public statement would keep the scandal alive." He (Storrs) declined to give further advice. Tilton then came again with J. F. B. Carpenter and about the parameter in the bandwit.

The Great Raisin Country. Notwithstanding our great superihave ever labored under great disadvantages in some respects. While we boast of raising the best grapes in the world and nearly all other fruits which grow in any climate, from the tropies to the frigid zone, in greater perfection than can be produced in any other country, we are too remote from the great centers of commerce to successfully market the perishable products of which California is so justly proud. Hence farmers who own land cupable of producing fruits that would challenge the admiration of the world are driven to growing cereals or raising stock. There is absolutely no limit to the capacity of our soil to produce every variety of fruits and vegetables, and at the same time retain that fertility of the soil which is so rapidly impoverished by wheat and other cereals. But if vegetables and fruits could be placed upon an equal footing with the cereals by being imperishable, the gain to the farmer would be precisely in the ratio which the value of the former raised on a given acreage bears to the latter from a similar area-at least one thousand per cent. Farmers in this county would receive ten fold the profit from their land above what they now receive. When standing in a luxurious garden or orchard and looking upon the delicious fruits and vegetables, ripening, falling and decaying, we thought of the inhabitants of a parched or frigid land; and we have a hundred times wished for an invention to preserve this wasting delicious fruit and send it to them. We shall never cease to be thankful that we have lived to see our dreams and wishes consummated. The Alden process of preserving fruit has come to us in the nick of time. Although this process is generally known, very few understand it fully. It may be briefly described as a method of removing the water from animal or vegetable substances in a few hours, by pneumatic evaporation. The result of this operation is to render the articles treated by it proof against decay, and to artificially ripen them and increase their palatable and nutritions qualities. The most delicate fruits and berries, and the ordinary products of the farm and garden, are, when subjected to this process, in from two to four hours deprived of water, because greatly reduced in bulk, and can be at any time, by simply soaking in cold water twenty minutes, restored (for cooking purposes) to their original flavor, form and substance. All kinds of vegetables, such as pieplant, peas, corn, tomatoes, beans, asparagus, oniens, pumpkins, squash, potatoes, carrots, turnips, etc., can be preserved fresh for all seasons of the year, and all markets of the world. It is impossible to over-estimate a method that will rapidly and economically preserve the entire products of the farm and garden. It must prove a blessing to all countries, and a source of unlimited wealth to a section like ours, where the growth of everything is on a high scale. This invention is worth more to Los Angeles county than all the railroads and manufactories that will be constructed for a score of years to come. Hundreds of men of means have come and looked at our county, and praise its climate and production, and gone away, saying, "it is the finest country in the world, but there is no market for your products." That day is now passed, we shall now have a market at our very door for everything we produce. This invention promises to revolutionize agriculture and commerce. Succulent crops of all kinds have ever been worth four or five times as much as the same acreage of eareals provided they were raised.

The audience sit in semi-circles facing the cabinet, the inner circle being composed of this row sits the principal medium. They did not go into a trance, formance. They did not go into a trance, other advances and laughed and the room dimly illuminated by a coaling the seen that roseale tings so much affected in the spectacular drama. Now, however, these richest of crops (the succulents) are to be the safest and cheapest to market. A thousand dollars worth of apples, peaches, berries, lars worth of apples, peaches, berries, etc., will not only grow on one-fourth the ground required for a thousand dollars worth of wheat, barley, etc., but will go into one-fourth the barrels and will go to any part of the globe for onefourth of the freight. Our object in writing so much on this subject is to bring the matter fairly before the farmers of the country and induce them to prepare for the change-for, depend upon it, the change will be one of the worst paid pursuits of men; it is now to become one of the most lucrative. In less than sixty days this process will be in operation in our midst, and every farmer ought to prepare for it. We cannot say half that we wish to say in one or two articles on this subject, but we prost worth of the subject of the worst paid pursuits of men; Kate accordingly disappears, and the sing lag is resumed. thousand tons in the county, makes a better raisin by this process than the ordinary raisin of commerce, for which we never pay less than twenty-five cents per pound in our market. We saw the two side by side, and we know whereof we affirm. What a know whereof we affirm. What a God-send to our grape-growers. The raisins made of our large white grapes are actually wonderful. Here, then, the grape alone is a source of wealth to our county that we had not dreamed of before. Last year, and every year, the vineyardists were glad to get half a cent or five-eights per pound for their crops, and many vineyards have actually been dug up and destroyed beknow whereof we affirm. What a tually been dug up and destroyed because there was no profit in grapes; ority of climate and soil, we are and but henceforth this will be our most profitable crop.

New Developments. There may be something in spiritualism, but it has come in such questionable shape that people have been inclined to measure the science by the moral, social and intellectual status of its advocates and devotees. Especially is it true that with comparatively few exceptions, the most active expounders of spiritualism are men and women of medium intellectual powers and indifferent education. A few such men as Judge Edmonds did much to clothe the doctrine in respectable attire, but they were surrounded by an army of male and female charlatans, who were spiritualists for a livingwho, though ignorant themselves found others still more ignorant, on had himself arrested for libel in order whom they lived-and these made the to bring the whole matter before the educated and intellectual laborers in spiritualism appear in bad company as the advocates of a false cause. People have wondered why scientists and philosophers have never investigated and have steadily refused to investigate spiritualistic phenomena. The reason for the refusal is found in the fact that the "mediums" through which these manifestations have presented themselves have been as a class unworthy of consideration or credence. Spiritualism has been the stock in trade of impostors, mountebanks and itinerant showmen. In the hands of such people, no science could become respectable; supported by such apostles the Christian religion would have sunk to the level of a heathen legend. They were impostors, and were always proven such by every intelligent audience before whom they attempted to exhibit spiritual manifestations. It is no wonder, then, that scientistsmen of brains and education-refused to investigate the phenomena. It is no wonder that so long as the "presence" could only be obtained through mediums of questionable honesty and doubtful character, that the learned world declined to look at the matter at all. Of late, say within the last twelve months, a higher class of people have paid some attention to spiritual phenomena. The Fortnightly Review is authority for saying that WIL-LIAM CROOKES, F. R. S. and editor of the Quarterly Journal of Science; AL-FRED R. WALLACE, F. R. S.; W. H. HARRISON, F. R. S. and President of the British Ethnological Society, and others high in the scientific and literary world, have devoted considerable time to the serious consideration of spirit phenomena. They report wonderful things. These wise men are confident they have not been deceived, and they tell of interviews with the spirit of a girl who died one hundred, years ago. Her name was KATIE, and she appeared in visible form and talked with them; she gave them locks of her hair, pieces of her dress, and her autograph. They saw her, felt her, heard her, and they say she appeared and disappeared without the door of the room being opened. The following is an account of one evening's investigation:

The audience sit in semi-circles facing the quent disappearances and reappearances on the part of the young lady. The tenor of this important communication from the land of the hereafter is about as follows: "Good evening, Katie."

"Good evening."
"Are you alone this evening?"
"No. Father is here, and General Rawlins; but they can't materialize to-night."

"Katie, Mr. Owen (Robert Dale Owen) is here. Don't you want to speak to him?"

"Why, of course, stupid. Good evening, Father Owen." Father Owen."

Mr. Owen bows, and says, "Will you have this bouquet, Katie?"

"Of course I will," says Katie, and reaches her hand for it. It is given her, and she disappears with it, but presently returns and gives it to some one to hold for her.

"Katie, can you come out for us to-night?"

"I'll try; but it is very warm and very hard to materialize."

we wish to say in one or two articles on this subject, but we must mention one item more—the raisins. We visited Mr. Davis's room at the Clarendon Hotel, and he exhibited to us raisins made of several varieties of California grapes by the Alden process, and for plumpness and flavor they surpassed anything of the kind we ever saw. Even the common Mission grape, of which we have several

The last interview was on the 21st of May, when KATIE told the party that she must bid them a final farewell. On that occasion, the wellknown novelist, Mrs. FLORENCE MAR-RYAT ROSS-CHURCH was present, and the following is a part of her account of the events of the evening:

Katle was very busy that evening. To each of her friends assembled to say good-by she gave a bouquet of flowe stied up with ribbon, a piece of her dies, and vail, and a less of her a piece of her dress and vail, and a lecs of her hair, and a note which she wrote with her pence I before us. Mine was as follows: "From Annie Owen de Morgan (alias Katle King) to her friend, Florence Marryat Ross-Church, with love. Pensexamoi, May 21, 1874. I must not forget to relate what appeared to me one of the most convincing proofs of Katle's more than natural power, namely, that when she had cut before our eyes, twelve or fifteen different pieces of cloth from the front of her white tunic as souvenirs for her friends, there was not a hole to be seen in it, examine it which way you would. It was the same with her vail, and I have seen her do the same thing several times.

TILTON asserted that he could not bring out the facts before the Church Committee, and it is suspected that he Courts. This looks like one of BEN. BUTLER's sharp practice tricks.

THE Chronicle says the Sacramento papers are publishing Roman editorials. No such charge can be urged against the Chronicle. Its editorial may be classed under the head of roaming -roaming all around all issues and standing square on none.

THE Local Option paper started in San Jose some weeks ago, has ceased to make its appearance. The cause was beaten at the election and the paper was not well patronized.

Yesterday Conductor Hansen, of the Los Nietos road, missed a fine silver-plated revolver from his car. This morning he informed Officer Harris of his loss, and in a short time the officer found the pistol in the hands of two boys, brothers, named Mark and Harvey Carlton. They said they bought the pistol of Robt. Baldwin and Geo. Horgatt, who claimed that they won it at a rafile. Later Baldwin admitted to the officer that he and Horgatt stole the pistol from Conductor Hansen's car. These boys are all so young that they can-not be held responsible for their acts.

The weekly exodus from the city to the beach promises to be unusually large to-day, and Santa Monica and Will Tell's will both be crowded. All of the available livery rigs in the city have already been engaged and, besides the regular stages, several extra coaches will be run for the accommodation of the public. The dramatic department of the Turn-Verein Society, marshalled by Mendel Meyer, stage manager, with Prof. Arevalo and other well-known musicians in the ranks, will make a descent upon Will Tell's and capture the place. There will be music and dancing and a world of fun.

Coroner Richardson was summoned vesterday morning to hold an inquest on the body of a man found dead in a building on Alameda street, opposite | Useful for butter, and why not for milk? Mr. Keller's store. The deceased proved to be John Hensinger, a native of Germany, a shoemaker by trade, but more recently in other kinds of employment, and among the rest a driver of one of the city carts. We ! the material witnesses, as they give the principal points in the case:

Santomina Christiana being sworn, testified as follows: I live on the west side of Alameda street, opposite M. Keller's store. I have known deceased two or three years. His name is John Hensinger. I have been living with him ever since I knew him until last Monday, when we had a quarrel, and I left and did not see him again until now. Do not know of anyone who has seen him since that time until he was found dead. About a year ago he made an attempt to take poison to kill himself, but I hid it away from him. I know nothing about what was the cause of his death.

INDIAN WELLS, August 6 .- The Indians who have been trying their hands at horse-stealing for the past month with considerable success have begun to increase their depredations and have changed their style of operating to a more profitable field. On Saturday night, when the station-keeper, Mr. Fleming, and U. S. Military Telegraph Operator were quietly sleeping rolled up in their blankets outside the building, some Indians entered the station and stole a satchel belonging to the operator containing his clothes and money and about eighty dollars belonging to the station keeper. The robbery was not discov-ered till next day, when the operator went to look for a change of clothing, and found that his satchel and contents had mysteriously disappeared during the night. The robbers are known by a circumstance which occurred the day previous. Mr. Fleming had occasion to go to the satchel to change a fifty dollar bill, and while in the act an Indian entered and noticed the money, asking him how much the bill was worth. Fleming placed the money back in the satchel and ordered the Indian to leave, thinking no more about the matter at the time. The authorities at San Diego, as well as Yuma, have been notified to have the Indians arrested on making their appearance at either place. We need some protection from the military here, for we are too far from San Diego to interest anybody at the county seat but the Tax Collector.

Letter from the Health Officer.

Everything useful for something but man.

EDITOR HERALD: By the provisions of the health ordinances passed at last session of the Board of Common Council [They appear in to-day's HERALD .-ED.], it will be seen that many important regulations were adopted concerning certain irregularities and nuisances that have heretofore been maintained or by careless oversight have been suffered to exist in almost every portion and quarter of the city. I will invite the attention of your readers to

1st. In the absence of efficient sew-

Wells is a wild, desolate place in the and domestic drainage in general heart of the Colorado Desert, where amounts to nothing less than a nuisance of the most dangerous character. The seething masses of human corruption and filth found in a large majority of old vaults speak in tones of thundering stench to our senses to bury, cremate or abate in some manner the foul collections for the sake of back, as we learn from the following all the people—not only the poor tenchild, but the wealthy landlord, who, though in many cases removed some blocks away from his property, is of-ten the victim of the poison sent toward high heaven from his own property. This ordinance makes it a misdemeanor to maintain or suffer such a one to continue unconnected with a sewer. This imposes the necessity of many changes; and the alternative to provide, instead of the old ones, closets of certain dimensions or dry earth closets, presents the double question of financial economy and the public good for the consideration of the people. An intelligent understanding of the alternative offered by the ordinance will not long hesitate to decide in favor of the dry earth closet. Economically constructed, it will cost very little if any more than the miserable old - fashioned privy, which never can be other than a public and private nuisance; while the former most sacredly regards the public health, and when cared for, as the water-closet connected with a sewer must be, it presents the most com-plete immunity from disagreeable and unhealthy ordors of any device or sys-tem now known. Simple dry earth is the disinfectant and to apply it as you would the jet of water in the watercloset, requires some simple machinery for which a patent has been is-sued. This earth closet company is represented in this city by H. A. Spen-cer, with H. D. Barrows & Co. on Los Angeles street, and he will be pre-pared to either supply machinery or give instructions concerning the erection of these closets to all who may desire the same. Ninety-nine hun-dredths of the old closets in the city which should now be abolished can easily be converted into an earth closet and at about the same cost as construction of a new vault and re-establishment of the closet. Then we breathe a sweet and healthy air, instead of the noisome stench that would earth system, and until the change is made our city mortuary and sanitary reports will continue to tell tales upon us that will make Los Angeles any thing but a desirable resort for invalids. This dry earth system is used extensively in Eastern cities, and has the unqualified indorsement of medical, scientific and public men everywhere it is tried. It especially appeals to the people of this city because we have not now, nor never can have, an efficient system of sewerage. The lay of the land in much of the city forbids it, and then we have no sea, bay nor river to effectually absorb the vast quantities of sewerage that 12,000 to 20,000 people send forth. Already the city authorities are at a loss to know where they may discharge the main sewer, as the present one is reported a nui-sance. Even in this imperfect way they will be unable to supply all por-traps in the pipes connecting with kitchens and other places, will for the present be the only alternatine. City sewers, when constructed, will meet requirements in these cases. When it is remembered that many poor people use the water of thes zanjus for all domestic purposes, and that they have heretofore been used as receptacles for drains and filth of nearly every discription, it need not surprise the visitor and the earnest inquirer after a health resort-when we acknowledge much general sickness that is a burning shame to our city.

Los Angeles ought to be one of the most healthy cities and resorts in the world. It but wants good sanitary laws and police regulations enforced, and a determination on the part of the citizens to keep their premises clean, to make it all that paid correspon-dents have written of it. We have climate and natural drainage. Man must do his part if good health is secured.

J. H. McKEE, M. D.,

Health Officer.

Messrs, Fisher & Thatcher, the enterprising jewelers, have shown us some very fine articles of their own manufacture which, we think, for style of workmanship and finish cannot be excelled on the coast. They now manufacture all kinds of gold jewelry and guarantee satisfaction in every case. They have secured the services of Mr. G. Ramseyer, a very fine watchmaker from the Elgin Watch Factory, who has a supervis-ion of all work in his line. The establishment employs six workmen, and finds work enough to keep them constantly at work. Fisher & Thatcher have a thorough knowledge of their business and appreciate fully the value of advertising, which is an ernest of success and a guarantee of fair Hose, Handkerchiefs, Collars,

The Los Angeles Guards have room for a few more recruits. The company has acquired a good reputation thus far for being orderly, well-drilled and thoroughly up to their business in every way, and those who feel inclined towards military recreation cannot do better than to join the Guards.
